

Watch and listen to the butterfly songs listed on the guidance page.

Can you learn the words, sing along and join in the actions? Can you think of some of your own actions? As a challenge, could you make up your own butterfly song?

Make caterpillars of different lengths using playdough, string, socks, paper, etc. Can you order your caterpillars by length? How long are your caterpillars? What could you use to measure (e.g. blocks, socks, Cheerios, ruler)? As an added challenge, give the caterpillar and home learning measuring activities on the website a try.

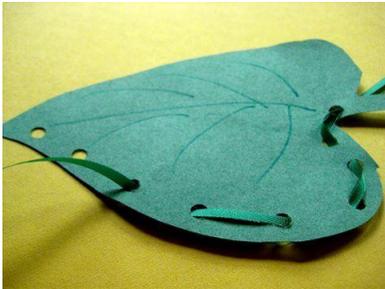

Choose at least 1:

Make a caterpillar paper chain.

Make a toilet roll butterfly.

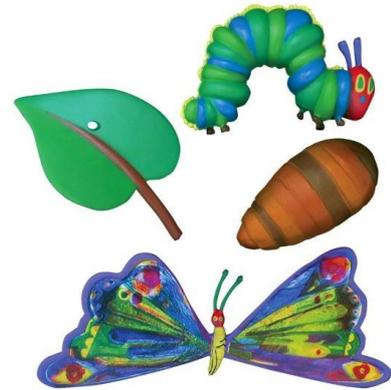

Punch holes into some real or homemade leaves. Thread some string through the holes.

Finger paint an image from the story.

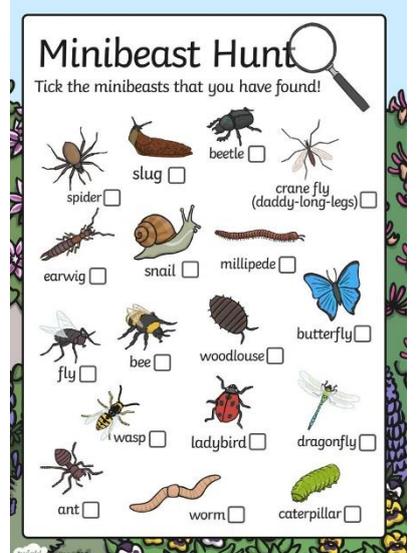

Can you rewrite your own version of the story by making up some 'silly sentences'?

For example: "On Monday he ate through 1 smelly sausage. On Tuesday he ate through 2 prickly, purple pumpkins." See if you can have a go at including some alliteration too (words beginning with the same sound i.e. 'sticky, salty sandwiches'.

You may like to use the word mat below to help you.

Go on a minibeast hunt!
Use the sheet
below to tick off
the bugs that you find.

Click the link below to complete 'The Very Hungry
Caterpillar'
yoga session:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xhWDiQRrCIY>

Gratitude is the feeling of being grateful or thankful. Who/what are you thankful for? Who/what are you grateful for? Think about the people, things and events that you are grateful for.

My Gratitude Jar
Think about different people, things and events you are grateful for. Put in little notes in your jar.

Write a list, draw a picture, create a 'gratitude tree' (where each leaf is something you are grateful for) or complete the Gratitude Jar activity below with all the things you feel grateful for.

